

Drink Driving

Busted Again ?

THIS time you might well be able to stay on the road. True!

Work Licences

LOST your driver's licence?
Get back on the road A.S.A.P.
with fast, friendly and efficient service.

For (free) phone advice, call

PATRICK WINKLER

Barister, Auckland

(09) 575 5111 or (025) 226 9992

Call anytime, including evenings & weekends
(eligibility restrictions may apply, available through subscription)

Dealing with the Police

1. Supply your name, address, occupation and any license you must carry.
2. You do not have to go with a police officer, or answer further questions unless you have been arrested for an offence (except when required to accompany under the Land Transport Act 1998).
3. A police officer can only search you after he has arrested you, unless he has reasonable grounds to suspect an offence under The Arms Act 1983; you are loitering around wharves; you may be carrying an offensive weapon; under The Customs Act 1966; or The Misuse of Drugs Act 1975.
4. The general rule regarding a search of premises is – no warrant, no search. A warrant is required with respect to suspected offences under The Summary Proceedings Act 1957; Indecent Publications Act 1963; Gaming and Lotteries Act 1977.
No warrant is required in respect of suspected offences under the Arms Act 1983; Misuse of Drugs Act 1975; Sale of Liquor Act 1962; Massage Parlours Act 1978.
5. If arrested / questioned say, "I wish to remain silent, I will make no statement nor answer further questions. I demand to phone my lawyer." Make no deals, and remember that you may be convicted as a direct result of anything you say to the police.